

Can I just make CD copies for myself?

Yes, it is possible. However, when BPC Recording manufactures CDs, they are all done to Red-book standards from the original 24-bit recording and recorded on a special CD burner at 2x speed to reduce any possibility of any write errors. CDs duplicated on a regular computer using a program (such as iTunes) will not be as high a quality and consequently will not sound as good. Also, it will be challenging to create the same professional look as the original, to say nothing of the time and energy spent to reproduce copies yourself. For this reason, BPC Recording has duplication options available for your convenience.
